This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.

+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.

+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.

+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. INTRODUCTION.

In February, 1874, the Association issued the first comprehensive and thorou Catalogue of its books, which has fully supplied a long-felt want in our Library, a has received unexceptionable praise from other kindred institutions, and from t Literary Reviews in general. Though, in the early years of the Library's history, t Catalogues have been previously published, the latter, from the recent date of i appearance, its completeness, and its universally approved system, must form t starting point of the Library's Index and Guide.

It represents thirty-six thousand volumes, and includes all books on the shelves Feb. 1, 1874. The present volume is a Catalogue of accessions to the Library fro that date to Sept. 1, 1875, supplementary to the former issue, and embraces abo five thousand volumes.

Since the publication of the main Catalogue all works in the Library, with t exception of Newspapers and Magazines, have been rearranged, and, to each, h been allotted a number and a permanent location upon the shelves. These number with the Division letters, have been inserted in the present Catalogue, at the end each title, and, when the number system shall come into exclusive use, will be foun indispensable. The old departments of classification, which have hitherto existed i the Library, are still retained, and will be preserved in the Divisions now represente by the several letters. Attention is invited to the list furnished on page viii.

This Catalogue, like the former, is prepared upon the "Dictionary plan," whic consists of an alphabetical arrangement of author, title, and subject, with subdivision of the latter when deemed of sufficient extent and importance.

To subserve the interests of our patrons, in familiarizing them with the syste employed, in its modifications—which latter, of necessity, vary more or less in differe Catalogues—it is deemed of use to repeat, in this volume, the general rules adopted, and to which we have endeavored to conform. Books are entered—

1. Under the name of the author. This forms the principal entry. Here, and here only, can be found the complete imprint of the work, to wit: as exact and complete a transcript of the title-page as its importance demands, the date and place of publication, and the size of the book.

2. Under the subject-matter. By means of this entry are brought together, in alphabetical order, all works on any given subject. They are here arranged by authors, with an abbreviated title of the book, since the primary object of these entries is to inform the reader as to who have written upon the given topic rather than what has been written. They serve to direct one to the principal, or author's entry, where the full description is to be found. When the last word or words in these abbreviated titles are the same as the ones used for the subject-heading above, they are omitted. Specific subject titles, in place of the more general, have been chosen for these entries, with copious cross-references from the latter. Thus, works relating to Birds, Fishes, Insects, etc., are placed under these respective titles throughout the work, instead of in a complex sub-classification under Zoölogy. Treatises on the Horse will be found under this name, and not under Animals or Quadrupeds. Numerous subjects, as Boston, California, United States, and the names of many countries, states, and cities, by reason of the number and variety of publications relating thereto, have been arranged in subdivisions, as calculated to simplify and facilitate the labor of reference.

3. Under the running or popular title—i. e., under the first word of the title, not an article. Though this rule applies more strictly to novels, which require but two entries, viz., by author and title, it is scarcely less serviceable in every other department of literature, and has been used in all cases where the title, from its peculiarity, is likely to be remembered or inquired for.

Anonymous works are entered, for the most part, under the leading word of the title; publications of societies, associations, etc., under the name of the society, etc.; government, state, or municipal documents under the particular country, state, or city.

Biographies of authors, and all references to them, are arranged after the works of such authors. See, e. g., Lytton, E. G. E. L. B. (lord)., page 94.

Parentheses, immediately following the names of authors, inclosing dates, denote the years of their birth and death; inclosing italicized words, indicate pseudonyms, honorary titles, or explanations; inclosing Christian names (or initials), signify that they are not ordinarily used by the author, and are rarely found in his works. See, e. g., Dumas, Alexandre (Davy); Collins, (W.) W.

Brackets denote that the matter embraced is introduced by way of explanation.

Capital letters have been made use of only for proper names, adjectives derived from them, and the initial titles of each sentence. 'Although,' says the Catalogue of the Library of Congress, 'this is a departure from a very general usage in printing the German and some other languages, it secures a uniform and elegant typography; and as the capitalization of substantives was not practiced in the early days of German typography, and is recently abandoned by the brothers Grimm, in their "Wörterbuch," and other philologists, the innovation is not without high authority.' Accordingly, in the French language as well, to avoid what might be to the general reader an apparent inconsistency, proper adjectives have been capitalized.

The type is the same used in printing the former Catalogue, and, with the several distinctive kinds of letter, presents a neat and characteristic page. The first word the main entries is in light antique; subject-headings, when there are two or m titles, are denoted by a separate line in the same; and, in the entries under a subje authors' names are placed in small capitals. Subdivisions are prominent in a distinct bold-faced type. The body of the work is in brevier, and the contents in agate.

The dash (—), commonly made use of to denote the repetition of authors' names subject-headings, has been omitted except in three classes of entries: 1st, unde subject-heading when there are two or more treatises of the same author (see Chin Thomson, J., page 30); 2d, when two or more works of joint authors are broug together, to indicate the repetition of both (see Hale, E. E., et al., page 68); 3d, af double columns of 'contents,' which come outside of the range of the titles (see Colli (W.) W., page 33). The word Same is used to avoid a repetition, and includes b title and author of the preceding work.

Books are described as 12mo, 8vo, 4to, etc., from their apparent size, and r strictly in accordance with printers' classification, derived from the folding of the shee

On the following page are also repeated a few 'Rules for Alphabetizing,' consisti principally of those set forth in the 'Class list for English prose fiction' of the Bost Public Library. They are based upon Professor JEWETT'S rules, laid down in 'Construction of Catalogues,' and, as they have been our guide in the arrangement titles, are inserted that they may serve the use of interpretation.

A list of new Abbreviations used in the titles of Dramas, etc., will be found unc the heading, 'Dramas by titles,' page 44. Those in general use throughout the wo for the most part, require no explanation. A few of the more uncommon are given page vii.

A. E. WHITAKER,
Librarian.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 1, 1875.

RULES FOR ALPHABETIZING.

1. Authors' names should precede titles of books, or names of subjects. Thus, Home, John, should precede 'Home sketches in France.' King, P. G., precedes King Hart.

2. Surnames should precede names of places when they are identical. Thus, Washington, G., should take precedence of Washington (D. C.).

3. Christian names, used as headings, should precede surnames. Thus, James I. should go before James, H., Jr.

4. The name of an author, whose initials only are known, precedes the same letters with a full Christian name. Thus, Clarke, J. F., is placed before Clarke, James Freeman.

5. Proper names beginning with Mc or M' are arranged as if spelled Mac, and must be looked for under those letters.

6. A hyphened word is to be alphabetized as if the last part were a word by itself, though the whole word is printed in the antique letter. Thus, 'Life-insurance' should be placed after 'Life in Paris' and before 'Life problems.'

7. The possessive case singular should follow the nominative singular (whatever the adjunct of the latter may be), and should precede the nominative plural. Thus, 'Harper's language-series' should follow 'Harper Bros.,' and 'King's cope' should precede 'Kings.' The same principle applies to the possessive plural.

8. Abbreviations (as Mr., Mrs., Dr., etc.) are to be treated as if spelt out (Mister, Mistress, Doctor, etc.).

9. Compound names of persons—as De Quincey, Des Vœux, Du Boys, La Fontaine, Las Casas, Le Sage, Van Buren—are to be treated as single words, and printed in antique letter. In the alphabetical arrangement, therefore, Dublin would precede, and Dubuque follow Du Boys; and similarly in like cases.

10. Compound names of places, as New York, San Francisco, etc., are to be treated as separate words. Hence, New Hampshire and New York precede Newark, and San Francisco comes before Sanborn.

Atlas, with maps and plates.
First Voyage.—Account of the voyages undertaken by the order of his present majesty for making discoveries in the southern hemisphere, and successfully performed by commodore Byron, and Captains Wallis, Carteret, and Cook, in the Dolphin, the Swallow, and the Endeavour: drawn up from the journals which were kept by the several commanders, and from the papers of Joseph Banks, by John Hawkesworth. Lond. 1773. 3 v.
Second Voyage.—Voyage towards the south pole and round the world: performed in H. M. ships, the Resolution and Adventure, in the years 1773-5. In which is included captain Furneaux's narrative of his proceedings in the Adventure during the separation of the ships. Illustrated with maps and charts, and a variety of portraits of persons and views of places, drawn during the voyage by Mr. Hodges, and engraved by the most eminent masters. Lond 1777. 2 v.
Third Voyage.—Voyage to the Pacific ocean, undertaken by the command of his majesty for making discoveries in the northern hemisphere: to determine the position and extent of the west side of North America; its distance from Asia; and the practicability of a northern passage to Europe; performed under the direction of captains Cook, Clerke, and Gore, in H. M. ships the Resolution and Discovery, in the years 1776–80. V. 1 and 2, written by captain James Cook; v. 3, by captain James King. Illustrated with maps and charts, from the original drawings made by Lieut. Henry Roberts, under the direction of captain Cook; and with a great variety of portraits of persons, views of places, and historical representations of remarkable incidents, drawn by Mr. Webber during the voyage, and engraved by the most eminent artists. Published by order of the lord's commissioners of the admiralty. Lond. 1784. 3 v.
